

BELOIT AGAIN
BADLY BEATEN

Red Hot Game with State University Boys at Milwaukee.

BIG CROWD ATTEND

The Madison Team Shows
Itself To Be in a Class

FINAL SCORE 43 to 0

Milwaukee, Oct. 12.—There are over 5,000 people attending the football game at Athletic park between the Madison and Beloit teams. Merrill of Beloit was not allowed to play and Bunge was put in his place. Beloit chose the ball. The play was fast and furious but the university players won a touchdown in seven minutes. Score 6 to 0. Another touchdown was won in 15 minutes score 12 to 0. Smith then kicked to Cochems who made a spectacular run of 50 yards and made a drop kick. Score 17 to 0. More rush play followed and in three minutes Wisconsin again landed the ball over the line, securing the first half by 23 to 0. The last half resulted in 43 to 0. Milwaukee, Oct. 12.—Today the annual battle on the gridiron between the football teams representing the university of Wisconsin and Beloit college will be played at Milwaukee park beginning at 2:30 o'clock. This game has been looked forward to with much anticipation by Milwaukee patrons of the sport, and the knights of the moleskin will be given a royal welcome, the advance sale indicating that the attendance will be a record breaker in the history of football in Milwaukee. Both teams are in perfect condition as a result of the training, and a really fine contest is assured.

Objections to Merrill
John L. Griffith, manager of the Beloit football team, came to Milwaukee last night and had a long conference with Manager Kilpatrick of Wisconsin, in which the whole matter relating to the playing of Merrill, was thoroughly canvassed. Manager Kilpatrick said that he did not know what attitude Wisconsin would assume if Beloit insisted on playing Merrill, but that he did not see how he could subject all of his men to the charge which would hang over them if they competed against Merrill.

Big Delegations Come With Teams
Beloit came to Milwaukee this morning at about 11 o'clock, over the North-western railroad, and will return about 11 o'clock tonight by the Milwaukee railroad. The party consists of at least 400, including the team, rooters and Beloit band. Wisconsin arrived at about the same time over the Milwaukee road, and will return tonight by the North-western. Its party comprises 600 people—the team, the band, the rooters and the mascots, Spencer and the badger. Beloit will be quartered at the St. Charles hotel and Wisconsin at the Hotel Pfister. The game will start sharply at 2:30 o'clock. The officials will be R. Rehner and J. Darby. Beloit's linesman will be C. Gray and F. C. McGowan will act for Wisconsin.

LA CROSSE TO HAVE A NEW COLLEGE

Presbyterian Synod at Hudson Has Authorized the Collecting of $100,000 for That Purpose.

La Crosse, Wis., Oct. 12.—Today articles of incorporation for a new college were filed with the register of deeds, and the Presbyterian college for this city, which has so long been a thing of vision, will be an assured fact. The Rev. W. D. Thomas, one of the incorporators, who returned yesterday from the conference of the Presbyterian synod held at Hudson, said that the synod had authorized the directors to seek among the Presbyterians for an endowment of $100,000. Presbyterians from all over the United States will contribute the amount required. The site has already been donated by Fred Easton, being a beautiful farm inside the city. This property is widely known as the Easton racing park. It is expected that everything will be ready for letting contracts December 24. While definite plans will not be authoritatively announced until after the election of officers and directors on Monday, everything possible will be done to rush matters to completion.

ENGLAND'S POLICY OF SEVERITY IS ON

Boer General Shot Because He Scoffed
at Kitchener's Proclamation—
Others Were Hanged.

London, Oct. 12.—Word comes from Capetown today that Commandant Lotter, the Cape rebel, who dared to scoff at Kitchener's proclamation, asking the surrender of all Boers under the pain of deportation, was shot yesterday at Middleburg, thus paying the penalty of his defiance. Lotter's reply to Kitchener's proclamation is unfit for publication. Apparently England's policy of severity as indicated by a recent declaration of martial law throughout South Africa is now in full swing. In addition to Lotter's execution and the sentencing to life imprisonment of five of his comrades, two young farmers have been hanged at Vryheid for joining the enemy and many rebels are condemned to various terms of penal servitude.

Kitchener reports that Commandant Scheepers's force, which for the past six months has eluded all efforts of the British to corner it, has been captured by French's column. The dispatch merely states that Scheepers was captured. It does not say whether or not his men are captured. As Scheepers has been ill recently it is possible he became isolated from his force and thus was captured alone.

UNITED STATES IS NOT LAND HUNGRY

Delegates to the Pan-American Con-
of Mexico Today.

Washington, Oct. 12.—The United States delegates to the Pan-American congress left for the city of Mexico today. The first and most important duty imposed on them is to impress the fact upon the representatives of the Central and South American states, that the United States is not land hungry and entertains no dream of conquest in their direction. The work of the conference will, broadly speaking, be upon two subjects, trade relations and arbitration disputes between nations.

APPEAL MADE TO ALL ANARCHISTS

Bourges, France, Oct. 12.—Mayor Vaillant, of this place, published a sensational appeal to anarchists. The appeal reads: "The dagger in Carnot's entrails has not delivered us; Bressi's revolver caused a new king; the ball which tickled the corpulent abdomen of McKinley will not prevent another presidential cancer from devouring American resources. Who will exterminate the evils of mankind with an avenging and liberating arm?" The mayor will be prosecuted.

TRY SUBMARINE BOAT.

Mysterious Craft Has Been Under Construction for Three Years.

Stamford, Conn., Oct. 12.—A mysterious submarine boat, which has been under construction for the last three years at Ware Island, near the mouth of Stamford harbor, has departed for the New Jersey coast, where she may have deep water for her trials. J. L. Carter, who has superintended the building of the boat, has maintained much secrecy about her design, but she is said to be fifty feet long and to have a cigar-shaped hull of pine, sheathed with galvanized iron. The motive power is supplied by two powerful engines, driving two dynamos, kerosene oil being used as fuel and serving as ballast. The boat is supposed to have been built as an experiment for a party of capitalists.

Seton-Thompson Acquitted.
Denver, Oct. 12.—Ernest Seton-Thompson, the noted writer on wild animals, and John Goff, the guide, who were arrested by Game Warden Bush in Rio Blanco county, charged with violating the game laws, were acquitted on trial of the case at Meeker.

STALWARTS FAVOR MR. WHITEHEAD; BATTLE FOR GOVERNORSHIP ON

Walter Alexander of Wausau, and Secretary of State
Froelich Are Also in the Race—Republicans to Drop La Follette for Another Man.

When the stalwart republicans of Wisconsin had eight candidates in the field for the gubernatorial nomination they could not agree upon any one of them, writes W. F. Hooker in the Chicago Inter-Ocean. Bradford had a strong following and so did Whitehead, and the strength was almost hopelessly divided. At that time it was admitted that if Walter Alexander of Wausau, the partner of Alexander Stewart, would enter the field it would settle the question and the fight would proceed against La Follette, but Mr. Alexander had too much private business to attend to, and his partner being in congress, it was next to impossible for him to consent. Conditions have changed, and Stewart, it is said, is ready to attend to business at home, while Alexander serves his state at Madison.

Whitehead Very Popular
John M. Whitehead of Janesville was also in the city today and his presence was the cause of a revival of the talk of his candidacy. Mr. Whitehead is also a discreet man, politically and otherwise, and he did not talk that would serve to indicate his intentions or desires. Some of the reformers are taking it for granted that he will be a candidate for at least one of the principal organs of La Follette is already attacking him in a series of "open letters." Whitehead has a strong following all over the state that would require but very little investigation to develop. Both Alexander and Whitehead are popular. The former was no legislative record, but possesses a business reputation that has won him the respect and admiration of all people of Wisconsin. Whitehead on the other hand, has a record at Madison that is pleasing to a great majority of the republican voters of the state. There is no populism about him, and the stalwarts recognize in him a genuine reformer—one who can stand behind a measure for reform in public affairs without pounding a desk into kindling wood or howling until he loses his voice and shatters the crown of his head.

Secretary of State Froelich
But Alexander and Whitehead are not the only men who are being discussed in this connection. Secretary of State Froelich, within the past fortnight, has been brought forward by shrewd men as the strongest possible opponent of La Follette. He is a German-American, has a fine record as a public official, and has not been entangled in any of the fierce rows in the republican camp, although he is by no means considered for a moment as in anywise identified with the reformers. He is a stalwart of the stalwarts, and would poll the German-American vote in a solid lump. It has always been admitted that a German-American who has a clean record would make the strongest possible candidate for the head of the ticket in this state. The difficulty always has been to find some candidate who has not "slopped over" at some time.

BREAD MAKERS
ARE AT WAR

Cincinnatians May Get the Staff of Life at One Cent a Loaf as the Result.

Cincinnati, O., Oct. 12.—There is a bread war on in earnest in this city and a sixteen-ounce loaf for a cent is not a remote possibility. It was said on "Change" today that a well known bread baker concern had entered into an agreement with several large retail grocers for the sale of bread at 2 cents a loaf. The trouble started when a prominent grocer began baking and selling bread for 2 1/2 cents a loaf.

ISSUED THE FINAL
CENSUS REPORT

Population Figures of the United States Show a Slight Increase for the Males.

Washington, Oct. 12.—The final census report of the population of the United States by sex, nativity and color was issued today. It shows that the males number 39,059,242, or 51.2 per cent of the population in 1900. The increase of 13,233,331 in total population since 1890 is made up of 6,744,179 males and 6,489,152 females, an increase of 20.9 of males and 21.1 females. The foreign born element has increased only 12.4 per cent and the native born population 22.5 per cent since 1890. As to color and race the population in 1900 comprises 66,990,802 white persons and 9,312,586 colored persons, the latter comprising 1,840,785 persons of negro descent. The colored element as a whole shows an increase of 17.3 per cent since 1890.

of the Trade Made by a Boston Company.

The amount involved in the purchase will aggregate nearly $2,500,000, probably the largest leather transaction in the history of the trade.

SAYS THE CANTEN
ADDS TO SOBRIETY

General Stenberg is Strongly in Favor of the Post Exchange for Veterans.

Washington, Oct. 12.—Surgeon General Stenberg in his annual report to the secretary of war says the health of the army has been unusually good during the calendar year, 1900. Speaking of special diseases General Stenberg says: "The steady decrease of late years in the admissions of alcoholism among the men of the regular army is a matter for congratulation. Military officers may be said to be unanimous in their opinion that this is mainly the result of the establishment of the post exchange or canteen at military posts. There is less drunkenness among the troops in active service than in a command doing garrison duty in the times of peace."

SAW MR. ANDREWS AND WIFE AT SEA

Captain Wilson of Steamer Durango,
Spoke to Bridal Couple on Little Boat
100 Miles from Cape May.

Baltimore, Md., Oct. 12.—Captain Wilson of the steamer Durango on Wednesday spoke to Captain Andrews and his wife in their little boat, the Dark Secret, 100 miles east of Cape May. Andrews told Wilson his wife had been sea sick but was recovering. "The poor woman looked to me," said Captain Wilson, "as if she had been beached. She kept looking longingly at us as far as she could be seen. Captain Andrews remarked that he was going to show the world the pluck of a Yankee man and woman." When Captain Wilson first sighted the Dark Secret he headed for the tiny boat thinking it contained survivors from a wreck.

COST OF CARING FOR BAUGER INSANE

Rock County Apportionment Reaches
$13,716.55—Total for All Counties in State, $376,293.88.

Madison, Wis., Oct. 12.—The state pays each county $3 a week per person for maintaining the chronic insane of other counties and $1.50 a week for keeping their own chronic insane. Milwaukee county receives a special amount for keeping its own. It does not maintain any patients from other counties. The state board of control today apportioned the pay for the maintenance of the chronic insane for the past year. Rock county gets from the state $11,414.66; from the county $2,301.89; total, $13,716.55. The totals for all the counties is state $281,654; county, $96,269.71; total, $376,293.88.

WILL NOT ABOLISH
RAILWAY PASSES

Plan to Wipe Them Out of Existence
Was Killed at a Railroad Meeting in Chicago.

Chicago, Oct. 12.—Railway passes will not be abolished December 31 next. The plan to wipe them out of existence was killed at a meeting here yesterday of the executive officials of the Western roads. They will meet again on November 5, when the funeral services will be performed. The scheme to abolish passes in all probability will be resurrected about a year hence, as E. H. Harriman and other railway magnates are firmly imbued with the idea that the officers and employees of the railroads and members of their families should pay regular rates when they travel, the same as all others. When a vote was taken on the question of adopting the recommendation of the committee nearly all the big roads voted in the affirmative and all the smaller roads voted against it. The majority against abolishing passes was decisive, although quite a number of railroads which were not represented at the meeting doubtless would have swelled the majority. All the roads controlled by the interests which want to abolish passes were represented at the meeting. On the motion of one of them the meeting adjourned to meet again on November 5, to discuss recommendations which may be made to limit the issuance of passes to those held to be entitled to them.

Arastegui, near Barrancas, in the state of Bolivar, and that Gen. Arastegui has been taken prisoner. It is further announced that the Venezuelan troops have joined arms with the revolutionists. Government troops from San Felix, commanded by Gen. Africano, sustained a defeat near the town at the hands of the revolutionists under Gen. Vidal. Gen. Africano escaped to San Felix.

DRINK CRAZED
MADMAN KILLED

Mattoon, Ill., Citizen Shoots
a Man Who Invades
His Home.

A FIERCE BATTLE

Drives Herman Family From the Supper Table with a Butcher Knife.

QUIET TOWN AROUSED

Mattoon, Ill., Oct. 12.—After a struggle with a man maddened by drink, who invaded his home and attacked his family, John Herman, in the evening, killed the madman and saved himself and his family from injury. The victim, whose name was Rourke, came to town to attend the street fair which is in progress here. He was found several days ago in a boxcar in the railroad yards suffering from an attack of delirium tremens and removed to the hospital by the police. He was given medical treatment and was liberated. Early in the day Rourke again became intoxicated. He was seen on the streets, which were crowded, acting wildly, but escaped the attention of the police.

Drives Family from Room.
In the evening, while the Herman family was seated at the supper table, Rourke forced an entrance to the house. In his hand was a huge butcher knife, covered with blood, and blood was flowing over his clothes from a knife cut in his throat. The two girls, Emma and Edna, sprang to their feet. The madman rushed at them, cursing and waving his knife. The Hermans fled, some to the street, some to other rooms, screaming for help, with the madman in pursuit. Mr. Herman, running to his room, secured a revolver and returned to the dining-room, intending to drive Rourke from the house. The infuriated drunkard refused to depart. He made an attack on Herman, overthrowing furniture and attempting to reach him with the knife. By this time neighbors were rushing to the scene, attracted by the cries of other members of the family.

Herman Shoots the Madman.
Herman, seeing his life in danger, fired. The bullet struck the madman in the breast and he fell. Medical aid was summoned as soon as possible, but Rourke died almost instantly; the bullet having pierced the heart. Mr. Herman at once gave himself up to the authorities, but it is not thought the coroner's jury will advise detaining him after the inquest, which is being held. It was later learned that Rourke attempted to enter the house of I. H. Murphy, two doors from the Herman home, but the screen was fastened.

DR. E. A. BIRGE WAS ELECTED PRESIDENT

Resignation of Dr. Adams as President of the State University,
Accepted by Board of Regents.

Madison, Wis., Oct. 12.—President C. K. Adams of the University of Wisconsin tendered his resignation last evening to the board of regents. The resignation was conditionally accepted and referred to a committee composed of Regents Villas, Noyes, Kerwin, Stout and Edmunds, with instructions to recommend a successor.

Dr. E. A. Birge, dean of the college of letters and sciences, was elected temporary president, with an increase of salary of $2,000. His salary as dean was $3,500. President and Mrs. Adams, it is understood, will spend the winter in Southern California. There is much gossip regarding the probable permanent successor of Dr. Adams. Colonel Villas, it is understood, would not accept the position because he believes it belongs to Dr. E. A. Birge. The latter's scholarship is unquestioned and his executive ability as tested the past year has proven exceptionally good and has greatly impressed the board of regents. "Unless some star eastern man is chosen," said a regent today, "Dr. Birge will probably be retained."

Dairy and Food Commissioner H. C. Adams strongly advocates the election of State Superintendent L. D. Harvey to the vacancy. One of the regents thought that Dr. F. J. Turner, head of the history department, would be an admirable successor of Dr. Adams.

DEPEW TO WED
ABROAD, SOON

Sister of Miss Palmer; the Bride, Says the Marriage Will Take Place in a Few Weeks.

New York, Oct. 12.—Mrs. Von Andre, who sailed for England on Wednesday, informed some of her friends here before her departure that the wedding of her sister Miss May Palmer, to Senator Depew, would take place in a few weeks at her house in London.

Just Between Ourselves

Isn't it strange what awful trials poor lovelorn maidens have to endure and how forgetful stern parents are of the days when they were young and found every hour that was not spent in each other's company stale, flat and unprofitable? But such is the way of the world and there are many young people in the city who will bear witness to the fact that the course of true love or of any old kind of love at all does not run smooth. One of the maidens who finds the way particularly rough traveling just now lives on one of the principal residence streets in the First ward. She is just emerging from her teens and naturally resents being treated like a child but her fond mamma still regards her as a tender hothouse plant to be carefully shielded especially from exposure to Cupid's arrows. The maiden is more brave and is not at all afraid of the mischievous little god who is always getting some one into hot water.

The other evening her heart was delighted by the company of a young man, the mere sound of whose footsteps has power to quicken her pulses and give her a fluttering sensation about the heart. They strolled leisurely home and stood in front of her parental residence in the place where the gate would have been in olden times. They lingered in that soulful communion so precious to two sympathetic spirits who find themselves apart from the rude and commonplace world for a season. It was a blissful moment, but like all the precious things of life, it was too good to last and the rude awakening came swift and sure.

Just when heaven seemed nearest the front door of the home opened and the avenging angel swooped down upon the poor innocents at the gate. The angel of vengeance was personified by the girl's mother. Wrath gleamed from her eyes and illuminated the night, there was no indecision or hesitation in the vigorous tread of the feet that had been geared for immediate action and were fairly aching because they were not masculine extremities and therefore could not, with any deference to tradition, find pleasant exercise in literally helping the young man on his way. But the irate mother had woman's weapon with her also and she used it in such a manner that showed that she had not permitted it to grow rusty from disuse. She piled it vigorously and if there was anything mean on this earth that she did not call the young man it was the fault of her vocabulary and not of her intentions. She laid down the law to him in seven different styles with all the frills and variations and was even inhospitable enough to intimate that future reputations of his visit would not receive the most cordial of welcomes.

All this time the disturbing element in the hitherto peaceful scene had fast hold of her transgressing daughter by the back of the neck and so far as the outdoor audience was concerned the tragic scene ended when the mother jerked the daughter from the gate to the front door and hauled her into the house. Accompanying her vigorous action with a running fire of comment on the young girl's foolishness and disobedience. What the mother had to say was not said in a whisper by any manner of means and it occasioned considerable amusement in the neighborhood. It was also quite amusing to see the young man start leisurely away from the place and walk nonchalantly down the street swinging his umbrella and whistling a happy air as carelessly as you please. He at least had been conscious of the fact that the episode had not been without witnesses.

It has been suggested that it would be well for the sentiment of sorrow which stirred the people of this city deeply over the death of William McKinley to crystallize in some form which would be a constant reminder of the great tribute of affection which the people of America have placed on the tomb of our martyred president. This great and sorrowful experience in the nation's history will inspire many material memorials for our deceased and beloved president and should not be permitted to fade away unnoticed in this city. A prominent citizen suggests that the public spirited people of Janesville could do no better thing at the present time than to take up a subscription, to be considered as a love offering and to be expended in the purchase of a bust of President McKinley to be put in a place of honor in the new public library building where it would be a daily inspiration to the public and especially to the children. No one doubts the sincerity of the homage which has been paid the departed president during these last sad weeks and the feeling would doubtless take form if some movement were started. The suggestion made is certainly worthy of serious thought and perhaps it will bear fruit so that the new library building will be enriched by the influences for good which must always be inspired by the kindly features of William McKinley.

When a minister of the gospel of the love of Jesus Christ deliberately, not thoughtlessly, puts aside the high dignity of his calling and descends to a petty deed of personal spite, he naturally loses something from his influence in the community in which he is supposed to labor with charity towards all and malice towards none. The greater pity lies in the fact that the cause which he represents must suffer also if the people who notice the petty action are not high minded enough to distinguish between the man and the minister. Preachers are merely human, it is true, but the gospel which they preach should at least inspire their lives sufficiently to restrain their hands from throwing stones. One has little respect for a Christianity which falls at the first test. No man has a right to set himself up as the judge of another man's life and a minister is the last person who should assume to call anyone a child of Satan or cast slurs on past records and dead issues of which he can know nothing save as he learns it by hearsay. Perhaps if investigation had been prompted by a kinder spirit and the subject of these remarks were as familiar with facts as he supposes he is in his own conceit he might have learned a few things which would give him the grace to feel a trifle ashamed of an action which might in some instances have added to an already heavy burden. If enlightenment ever does come to him, he may be comforted by the assurance that the poisoned arrow failed in its mission because it did not reach the person for whom it was intended and it inspired only pity in the heart of one other who might have been injured by it.

The fascinating face of Otis Skinner with its soulful eyes and tender, sensitive mouth, is once more making love to the maids and matrons from the billboards. One prominent woman says that she never goes by the great picture without feeling an almost irresistible impulse to carry on an ardent flirtation with it.

AMUSEMENT NOTES.

Surrounded by a company of unusual excellence, magnificent and appropriate scenery, costumes historically correct and with attention to the smallest detail, Otis Skinner's revival of Francesca da Rimini has been conceded to be one of the greatest dramatic events of the season, and has scored a veritable triumph in its recent presentation in Chicago. One cannot readily recall any dramatic presentation that has received such unanimous and unstinted praise of the press and public as was scored by Booker's romantic tragedy. It is in such high class work as is afforded him in the role of Lanciotto in Francesca da Rimini that Mr. Skinner is seen at his best. It will be gratifying news to many of Mr. Skinner's admirers that he will be seen in our city in a very little while. His engagement at the Myers Grand will be October 21st.

The reputation of Grau's singers is world-wide. The productions are absolutely perfect in every detail. No expense has been spared in staging the different operas in the repertoire. The company numbers over forty-five people, with a list of principals whose names are well known in the musical and theatrical world, among whom may be mentioned Miss Mary Carrington, the wonderful prima donna soprano, of the Castle Square Opera Co.; Bessie Tannerhill, Mezzo soprano; Mamie Scott, the charming little soprano; Harry Davis, America's greatest lyric tenor; Mr. Robt. Dunbar, baritone; Robt. Kane, Edward Engelton and Stanley Felch, comedians; together with a large and powerful chorus and Grau's own orchestra. In Sousa's wonderful comic opera success "El Capitan," Monday, Oct. 11th, at Myers Opera House.

YOUNG PEOPLE'S SOCIETIES' RALLY

The Young People's Societies of Christian Endeavor and Epworth Leaguers of the city will hold a rally at the Presbyterian church, Monday evening, Oct. 14, under the auspices of the Christian young peoples' union. Reports will be given by the presidents of the various societies in the city and of those at Afton, Footville and Rock Prairie. Addresses on the value and importance of the young peoples' work in the churches will be given by the Rev. Richard M. Vaughan and by the Rev. S. G. Huey, pastor of the Presbyterian church at Rock Prairie. The Y. M. C. A. orchestra will furnish the instrumental music and there will be several vocal selections. The public is cordially invited and it is especially hoped that all members of the young peoples' societies will be present.

SETON-THOMPSON WAS ACQUITTED

The Officious Colorado Game Warden Likely to Lose His Job Over This Affair.

Ernest Seton-Thompson, the famous writer of animal stories, who is to give one of the lectures on the People's Lecture Course, has been arrested in Colorado for violating the game laws of that state. With him was arrested John Goff, the guide who accompanied President Roosevelt, both men being charged by the deputy game warden of Rio Blanco county with baiting a bear trap with venison and running dogs after deer. They both deny the charges.

Mr. and Mrs. Seton-Thompson have been in camp thirty miles south of Craig, in the north-western part of Colorado for a month for they proposed to spend the fall studying the habits of wild animals. They have spent their time photographing wild animals of that section and examining their habits and haunts. Denver, Oct. 12.—Ernest Seton-Thompson, the celebrated writer on wild animals, with Guide John Goff, were arrested for an alleged violation of the Colorado game laws were today released. Their arrest will cost Warden Bush of Rio Blanco county his position as Game Commissioner Harris announces that he will be removed. The evidence showed that the two men had baited a bear trap with the carcass of a young deer which had been killed by a snow slide and the jury promptly acquitted them.

THE HIGH SCHOOL LECTURE COURSE

The high school lecture course opened most auspiciously last evening the seating capacity of the auditorium being overtaxed and a number of people being compelled to stand during the concert. Over 1,000 people saw the pleasing entertainment given by the C. W. Best concert company as the opening attraction on the course.

This lecture course is planned especially for the pupils of the schools and last evening's entertainment was chosen with the especial view of giving pleasure to the young people. In this it certainly succeeded for the program was more than doubled before the audience would be satisfied and encore after encore was insisted upon.

The company included four children under the direction of C. W. Best who is a brilliant pianist and who opened last evening's program with a triple number including "Columbine," "Crescendo" and "Frost Fairies," the latter being one of his own compositions. The greater part of the program was given by Miss Lillith and Master Harry Storms, who are quite talented children. The gypsy dance in costume was the best thing which they did and with the Mexican dance which they gave for an encore made a novel and pleasing number. The minut in costume, with which the program closed, was also a picturesque feature. Both children recited quite well. Miss Lillith recited "Zingarella" and Master Harry gave "A Farcial Family" while together they gave the comedy sketch "A Happy Pair." It was a matter of regret with many that the selections chosen were not more appropriate to the age and abilities of the children who, however, were encored repeatedly.

Master Leyton Potter, the violinist, played two numbers, "Ninth Concerto," by De Beriot and "Mazurka de Concert," by Musini, both of which were encored, and showed himself to be a musician of more than ordinary ability. He plays exceptionally well for so young a boy.

Perhaps the most talented of the children is Master Frank Pfunder, the soprano soloist. He has a voice of rare power and rich melody but the beauty of its tone is somewhat impaired by his method of singing. In spite of this fact, however, he won high favor for his unusually fine voice which showed effectively in the rendition of two difficult numbers, "Arise—Joan of Arc" by Bernberg, and "Sancta Maria" by Faure, together with encores. Master Pfunder has a very pleasing appearance and in the last number he was attired as a choir boy and Master Potter played a violin obligato for the selection.

The children of this company are not prodigies nor yet remarkable artists, but they are bright and talented and they give a popular entertainment which pleases the mass of the people. They are all from Chicago with the exception of Master Potter, who is from Detroit, and this is the first year they have given a continuous tour at the expense of school work. In March Mr. Best is to take them to Europe. The violinist was with him there three years ago.

A HIGH OLD TIME AT A BARN DANCE

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Helms Entertained About Seventy of Their Friends Last Evening.

Genuine hospitality was dispensed in quaint form last evening by Mr. and Mrs. Walter Helms, who entertained about seventy of their friends at a barn dance. The barn for the occasion was the new addition to their store at 29 South Main street, which has recently been completed and the room which is designed to be stored with grain and seeds was certainly the scene of one very joyous event before it entered upon its prosaic career. The decorations of the "barn" were happily suggestive of the harvest time. Brilliant foliage in autumn's gorgeous hues, wreaths of straw, stalks and ears of corn decorated the walls and around the edge of the room grain sacks, made comfortable seats which were very enticing to the guests between dances. A heap of grain sacks on a set of scales made a unique cozy corner and the entire scene was appropriately lighted with tallow candles, a motely array of lamps and lanterns.

The jolly time began at 6:30 o'clock the fun commencing with the arrival of the first guests. There is something about a grotesque costume which is the best cure in the world for formality and the costumes in which the guests of last evening were attired were certainly "peaches." The suggestion contained in the rhyme of invitation sent out by Mr. and Mrs. Helms to the effect that straw hats and calico gowns would be sufficiently fine for the occasion had been accepted and the effect was very ludicrous.

When the guests had been assembled supper was served immediately at long wooden tables, the fasteners being seated at wooden benches. And such a feast as it was! All the good things which tradition has identified with the old fashioned farmhouse were there in abundance and the supper was certainly worthy the biggest house warming ever given in the country. The appetites which the guests brought with them seemed to have been made to order for that special occasion and every one "fell to" with a zest and relish that would have been a credit to farm hands at husking time. Maude Murdock, Edna Murdock, Charlotte Monat, Belle McGregor, Verne Murdock, Starr Atwood, Harold Dearborn and Ned Helms were the waiters and they were kept busy.

After the supper the guests adjourned to the decorated dance hall in the rear of the room where the supper had been served. Several hours were happily spent in dancing to the adding of Messrs. Rehfeldt and Baldwin and the guests were inspired by the occasion to many pranks which made the fun fast and furious. Cooling refreshments were served during the evening and the unique party came to an end all too soon to please those who were privileged to be participants.

To Attend Church Sunday. Members of the Trades Council will attend Divine service as an organization at the Congregational church tomorrow morning. This visit being intended to show their appreciation of the fact that Rev. Robert C. Denison has always been ready and willing to serve the labor organizations by speaking in their interests whenever he has been requested to do so. Prompted by the same feeling of gratitude towards Rev. Father W. A. Goebel, the Trades Council attended church at St. Mary's church two weeks ago.

At the meeting of the Janesville Art League held at the home of Mrs. George Osgood yesterday, delegates were elected to the convention of the Wisconsin State Federation of Women's clubs which meets in Madison next week Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, Oct. 16, 17 and 18. Mrs. A. E. Tanberg is one of the delegates by virtue of her office as president of the Art League and the other delegates are Mrs. James Mills and Mrs. Laura Burr. The alternates are Mrs. Mary Smiley and Mrs. R. R. Powell. A number of other ladies will attend the federation meeting as visitors.

The Small of the Back

That is where some people feel weak all the time.

They are likely to be despondent and it is not unusual to find them borrowing trouble as if they hadn't enough already.

The fact is their kidneys are weak, either naturally or because of sickness, exposure, worry or other influences.

"I am thankful to say," writes J. L. Campbell, of Sycamore, Ill., "that Hood's Sarsaparilla has cured me. For many years I was troubled with backache. At times I was so bad I had to be helped from the bed or chair. I am now well and strong and free from pain." What this great medicine did for him it has done for others.

Hood's Sarsaparilla Promises to cure and keeps the promise. Begin treatment with Hood's today.

PARENTAL CARE.

"Come here, mother, and see this little bird."

Eight year old Jessie stood under the old apple tree watching a young robin in its first effort to find its way back to the nest from which the mother bird had driven it an hour before.

"Why don't the old bird come and help it back; that kind of a mother don't deserve to have any children," and Jessie, filled with indignation, watched the little straggler as he tried in vain to spread his wings and find the way home.

The mother joined the little girl, and noticing that the young robin was able to look out for itself, said to Jessie:

"Come away, my little girl, the bird is all right," and then she tried to explain why it was better for the robin to get out into life for itself, and away from the protecting wing.

It was all easy enough until she commenced to talk about the mother, and why she deserted her offspring, never recognizing them after saying a hurried "goodbye," and Jessie was not able to comprehend that kind of a mother love.

What is true of the robin is true of animal life throughout the entire kingdom.

The mother hen, that scratches so vigorously and clucks so lustily for the little brood that has been given her as a reward for patience and faithfulness, will soon desert them for the active duties of a more independent life.

Watch the process and see how easily she thrown off material responsibility. The first week spent with the little family is a busy week for the mother, every crumb is tested, and every worm carefully divided, while every few moments, every little head is tucked away for a nap. She talks to the children in soothing tones, and protects them in strong and vigorous voice and action.

A month later you find it difficult to recognize the family. The chicks are all legs and voice, constantly demanding attention. The mother is weary of the clamor and mounts the fence to be put of reach of the troublesome brood. When patience ceases to be a virtue she says to the little vagabonds, "Get out and scratch for yourselves," and after the edict is declared, she wouldn't recognize them at a party.

These conditions in animal life are normal, and it is not only natural, but necessary that family ties should be severed, just as soon as the offspring are able to work for themselves.

In the busy workshop for existence where all kinds of animal life compete for the mastery, the survival of the fittest is about the only law recognized. There is no preparatory school, no age limit, no factory inspector to enforce law, but simply the every-day flight of the bird, and hum of the insect, the busy scratch of the chick, or clatter of the squirrel, and when the ranks are depleted there are no mourners, for an All Wise Creator planned it otherwise, and this kingdom of such varied life, is but a contributor to the pleasure and comfort of that more important realm, the kingdom of humanity.

Have you ever compared these two kingdoms with reference to paternal care and solicitude? If so, you have discovered a marked distinction.

The little cottage, the home nest where the mother with all the love and patience that maternal instinct inspires, is ever the presiding genius. To this nest, the most sacred spot on earth, the father contributes his presence, and as he comes from his daily toil, the little family gather about him, and while the wife and mother is busy with the household cares, the children engage his attention and tax his resources in an effort to keep pace with the active minds and busy hands.

After the little brood are tucked away for the night, and the last sleepy murmur is hushed, the father and mother sit by the fireside and commune with each other. If you are close to the family and are favored by a presence within the sacred enclosure during this hour of quiet, you soon discover that self and selfish pleasure and comfort is lost in planning for the children that have come to bless the home. The bank account may be only a fleeting vision, the new gown too far away to be attractive, the plan for improving the house and adding to its furnishings, still in the distance, but the children must not be neglected, and so the mother scribbles, and the father saves, and thought and energy combine to equip the little group for life.

The years speed along with rapid stride, and all too quickly the little family is scattered and the father and mother sit at the same fireside, without a chick to annoy or a child to whisper a sleepy good-night.

They have gone out of the home nest, to test the grave realities of a life to which has been given so much of thoughtful parental preparation, and the home so full of life and busy activity, is but an echo of the past.

Visit it again in the quiet of the evening, and you find the same melody, but the place is so quiet that you hardly recognize it. Suggest the days of other years when the prattle of happy childhood fills the place with music, and the mother's eye kindles, and the father's voice is a little unsteady, as he says:

"Yes; those were happy years, and we would like to live them over again, but that cannot be, and we are cheered by the thought that the boys and girls are doing well."

Talk with them about each individual child, and you find the same love and solicitude that was so prominent back in the years of infancy and helplessness.

Does misfortune blight, and discouragement annoy, a mother's love and father's care is in the near background, and with new hope and courage, the struggle is renewed.

Twenty years later, when the same quiet home is more quiet, because the feebleness of age has rendered the step slow and uncertain, and the activities of life have succeeded to the patient waiting or ripe old age, and you discover at the same hearthstone, the same two loyal hearts, that have kept bright the altar fires kindled so long ago.

John, the oldest son, now past middle life, is home from a trip across the seas, for the first time in thirty years. The mother adjusts her glasses to note the changes that time has made, and looking intently into his face, says in feeble voice:

"You are the same Johnnie that I loved so well so long ago and my prayers and my love have been with you, my boy, through all the years." The father, sitting in the old arm chair, feeble in body, yet strong in character, says: "Yes, John, we crossed the water with you, and you have been close to our hearts every day of your absence."

That's human love, touched by a coal from an altar of Divine origin, where the fires kindled so many centuries ago, are constantly bright. It quickens into family ties, and crowns the home with sacred associations, but its scope is limited, and its mission feeble, as compared with a love and tender solicitude, that makes of one family all nations, and crowns with blessings, every life everywhere, that will permit the crowning.

Parental love is tangible, and so common that it is easy to understand, but infinite love, so subtle, and yet more common, is more difficult to grasp. The eye of faith, and the heart of submission, discovers this Divine guest, and enjoys the communion that lives beyond the ashes of the human home.

WHY DID BISHOP RESIGN?

G. E. Vandercook is doing some special work for the Milwaukee Sentinel, and on a recent visit to Rhineland, the home of George W. Bishop, late of the state board of control, he discovered why that gentleman resigned from the board. Mr. Bishop has many admirers in Janesville who will be pleased to learn of his frantic efforts to avoid contamination. The spasm of virtue that has struck the young man is worthy of emulation.

Mr. Vandercook says: "As near as can be learned, the reason he resigned can be stated briefly. He had never been a supporter of Governor La Follette, and after the governor's election found himself in a position, as a member of the board, where he was expected to create vacancies in the force at the several state institutions, to be filled by appointments of the governor and his supporters. Some of the men removed were old in the service, experienced in their particular line of work, and their removal was detrimental to the service. While there was no open break between the governor's advisers and Mr. Bishop, it placed him in an undesirable attitude and resulted in several misunderstandings and a clash of authority between members of the board and some of the newly appointed heads of institutions.

"A disposition appeared to exist on the part of at least a majority of the board to make the changes required to suit the new political condition and acquiesce in the demand for places. In some instances even changes were made without the board being notified, and removals made of competent persons who had been connected with some of the institutions for many years in positions of trust and responsibility. Mr. Bishop believed that this was detrimental to the best interests of the service, and had no desire to continue in a position where the relations were becoming daily nearer the breaking point, and had no desire to assist in the removal of competent people from office for political reasons alone."

Tomorrow is Sunday, the one day of the week when you are expected to go to church.

The sermon may be dull, and full you to peaceful slumber, but you have done your duty; go to church.

Your neighbor in the pew ahead may have a new hat that puts your last year headgear in the shade, and makes you feel wicked, but you have done your duty; go to church.

The man across the aisle may owe you a little bill long past due and your mind may be absorbed with broken promises while he sings lustily, but you have done your duty; go to church.

The choir may have a cold, and a note of discord may jar you, especially if you are looking for discords, but you went to hear the sermon, and your duty is accomplished; go to church.

The collection box may rattle ominously close to your ear, and you may feel like saying, "I'm glad salvation's free," but you spent two dollars for cigars last week. Never mind a nickel for the church. You have done your duty; go to church.

You may look over the audience with critical eye, and swell up with self-righteousness when you discover that you are as good or better than the average attendant, but you have done your duty; go to church.

Perchance some word from the preacher or note of song may strike a receptive chord, and thought will center on the sacredness of the day and place, and out of the turmoil of busy life, there will steal into your heart a little message of peace, and you leave the house, thanking God that you visited the place, if for but no other reason than obedience to the voice of duty; go to church.

PRESS COMMENT.

Greene Bay Gazette: There is no reason why Texas with 200,000 democratic majority should have more influence in a republican nominating convention than Wisconsin with 100,000 republican majority, but such is the case under the present order of things. Republicans should consider the proposition carefully and determine finally upon a plan of representation which shall be for the best interests of the whole party.

Merrill Advocate: President Roosevelt seems to be carrying on business at the old stand. Mark our words for it, he will make a good president, and we haven't much doubt that the will be the unanimous nominee of the republican party in 1904. He will prove a conservative and careful president.

Eau Claire Leader: The Rev. Mr. Sheldon could run a newspaper, but when it came to the hired girl problem, he failed utterly. All the domestic who were to have carried out his scheme left in disgust, having failed to see any benefit to them in his plan. The servant girl question still remains unsolved.

Fond du Lac Reporter: The papers are divided as to what President Roosevelt says regarding the White House being too small and just the right size. So long as Roosevelt is president he is not likely to turn his landlord down and seek other quarters.

Ashland Press: Two sentimental fools have written Governor Odell of New York, asking him outright to commute the sentence of Czolgosz to life imprisonment. The fool-killer ought to hunt those people up and talk some sense to them.

Brooklyn Eagle: As an American Miss Stone must be restored to her people, if not to her employments, but as a missionary opinions are divided as to whether she is as much needed abroad as she is at home.

Syracuse Post-Standard: It is quite likely that Abdul-Hamid is more worried about the large increase in the Angora goat industry in the United States than he is about the disappearance of Miss Stone.

Racine Journal: Why should any temperance measure that reduces the output of liquor be regarded by our prohibition friends as a compromise with sin stamped with official approval?

La Crosse Republican and Leader: With one accord the people of Wisconsin will rejoice in the news that Governor La Follette is getting well.

PHILOSOPHY OF THE STREET.

When the day is ideal, there is generally something else wrong.

Most of our burdens really belong on the shoulders of others.

About the only thing that is ever paid without a quail is a grudge.

Life is too short for us ever to complete our work, but that is no excuse for neglecting duty.

There is a good deal of quiet satisfaction in seeing some one else run against fresh paint.

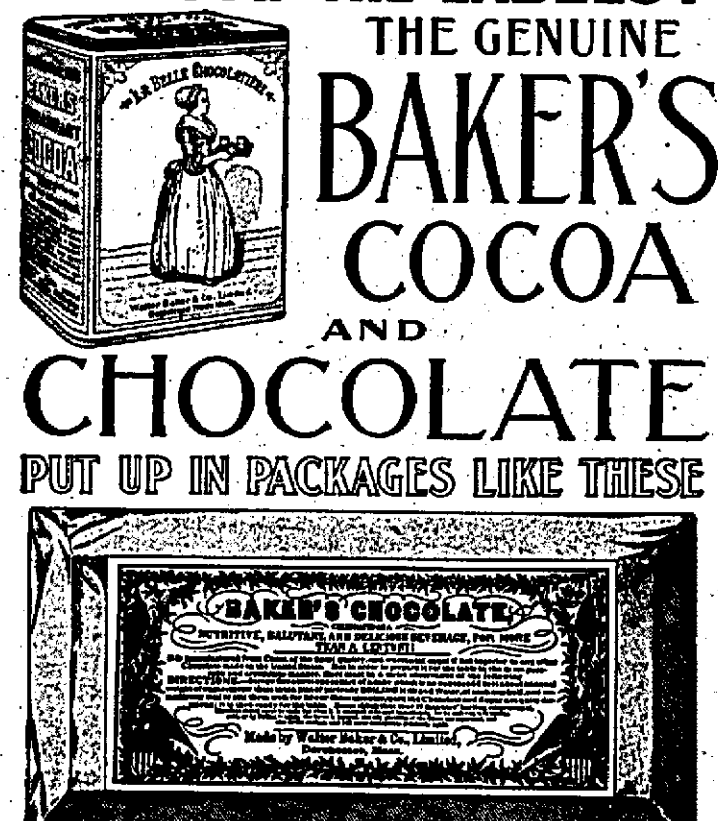

To see a crowd watch men work, almost produces an idea that the average man likes labor.—Milwaukee Journal.

REFLECTIONS OF A BACHELOR.

Our good deeds slip away easily; our sins ride us with whip and spur. From youth we learn nothing about age, but from age we learn all we know about youth.

A bachelor is one because he could, but wouldn't; a maid because she would, but couldn't. It isn't any worse, but somehow it seems worse, to be half a liar than half truthful.

Love that has to be carried in the door with supporting arms can flit out the window with its own wings.—New York Press.

WOMAN'S POINT OF VIEW.

The fairest rose may have the sharpest thorn; and the deepest wound may come from the one we love the best.

A girl never realizes how silly men can be until she reads a love letter written by some other fellow to some other girl.

Just imagine if one were to follow all the given-away-free advice on just what to do when in love, and how to be happy though married! Wouldn't he be strongly reminded of the old cook's rule for testing eggs: "Drop the egg in either hot or cold water, if it either sinks or swims, it is either good or bad."

The woman who offers to tell you something which she says is for your good, probably means well, but somehow you never feel quite sure of it.—Philadelphia Times.

Guys Smith, employed on the farm of Fred Hampt in the town of La-Prairie was thrown from a wagon onto a barbed wire fence and badly injured on Thursday.

MILWAUKEE STREET BRIDGE.

Street Commissioner Fredericks had a gang of men at work today tearing up the blocks and boards between the car tracks across Milwaukee street bridge. Most of the trouble with holes in the roadway has been between the car tracks and it is thought by replanking and fixing that space that the bridge will be all right until spring. If it once freezes up there will be no trouble about its holding together until next season.

It is suggested by some of the aldermen that the bridge could be torn up, replanked, and blocked and a few new piles be put in, so that it would be good for five years longer, for less money than the interest on a new bridge would amount to.

DRIVE NAILS JUST LIKE MEN.

Another Fiction Concerning Women Has Been Disputed.

The idea that a woman cannot drive a nail straight is completely disproved by girl school students at the Maryland state normal school at Baltimore. The young women of this class not only drive nails, but handle saws, planes and other carpenter tools with a dexterity that would shame the awkwardness of many men. The sloydroom in the basement of the normal school is a well-equipped carpenter shop. It contains about a dozen sloyd or carpenter benches and a complete equipment of all varieties of carpenter tools. Before taking up this part of the work the pupils are instructed to mold certain objects and do work in paper folding. This elementary part of the work is really very complicated. Work-ink plans are made of all the work. Then comes cardboard work, forming figures out of pieces of cardboard, representing geometrical solids. After this preliminary work the pupils are introduced to the carpenter shop. They display some little awkwardness at first, but soon become skillful in handling the tools and become intensely interested in the work. Only one girl has injured herself thus far and that happened because of a shaving alighting on her nose. She was so interested in her work that she thoughtlessly brushed at it with her knife and cut her nose. The pupils work in both hard and soft woods. All the work is shelved by the students, who also do all gluing and use sandpaper sparingly. The tools used include different sizes and varieties of chisels, saws, planes, hammers, mallets, knives and squares. The middle and senior classes participate in the work.—Chicago Chronicle.

Baby's Coming

McDonald, Ga., July 18, 1900.

I advise every suffering woman to take Wine of Cardui. While I was going with my other children I was compelled to stay in bed for days at a time, but this time I have taken Wine of Cardui and Theodor's Black-Draught and have been able to do all my housework without any trouble. I am expecting every day to be confined. My husband thinks Wine of Cardui is the best medicine in the world. He takes a dose of Theodor's Black-Draught every night and gives some to the children. He has not lost a day from work this year. He tells his friends about your wonderful medicines and I tell my lady friends to use your Wine of Cardui.

Mrs. GEORGIA LEM.

WINE OF CARDUI

There are thousands of women who shrink in terror at the thought of the baby's coming. But childbirth is one of the workings of Nature and it was not intended to imply torture and agony to the heroic mothers of the race. The woman who suffers torture during pregnancy and at childbirth has usually, by some indication, injured the organs which make her a woman. Neglect of menstrual irregularities leads to ovarian pain, falling of the womb and leucorrhoea, and the period of pregnancy is necessarily distressing under those conditions. Wine of Cardui will regulate the menstrual function perfectly and eventually make the generative organs strong and healthy. Pregnancy and childbirth have no terrors for the woman who takes this pure Wine. A strong healthy womb will bring its precious burden to maturity with little or no pain. A healthy woman need not fear childbirth. Wine of Cardui completely cures all these troubles familiarly known as "female diseases" and equips the sensitive generative organs for pregnancy and childbirth. It will save any mother much pain and suffering. All druggists sell $1.00 bottles.

Isn't it Worth 25c. To Be Cured of Constipation

People who suffer from habitual constipation with all its attendant ills, clogged stomach and bowels, sluggish liver, heartburn, indigestion, and thin and impure blood, are too apt to believe that the only remedy is violent purgatives. The contrary is the case. Such cathartics, even if they do move the bowels, are irritating and griping, leave the stomach inflamed and enfeebled and the constipated condition recurs with greater difficulty of cure and the sufferer constantly growing worse. There is a laxative, that moves the bowels without pain or griping, cleanses the stomach, sharpens the appetite, stimulates the liver, strengthens the nerves, and purifies the blood, while its marvellous tonic properties tone up the entire system and keep it healthy.

Laxakola Does It

Its remarkable tonic properties reach every organ—the liver, kidneys, and stomach, nerve, heart and brain—and removes the cause of your debilitated condition. This is the only way to secure an absolute and permanent cure.

Laxakola is the only medicine for babies, is purely vegetable and its action is gentle, speedy and effective. For coated tongue, simple fevers, colds, chills and languid feeling it is the ideal medicine.

It tastes good. Children like it and ask for it.

Laxakola, the great tonic laxative, is not only the most efficient of family remedies, but the most economical, because it combines two medicines, viz: laxative and tonic, and at one price. No other remedy gives so much for the money. At druggists, 25c. and 50c., or send for free sample to LAXAKOLA CO., 122 Nassau Street, N. Y., or 330 Dearborn Street, Chicago.

The Mysterious Box.

Once upon a time there was a very old couple living in a wood which was full of all kinds of wild animals. One morning the old man went to gather some wood in the forest, leaving his old wife at home.

A little before noon the good woman went to the creek to wash clothes, when, to her astonishment, she saw a fine, large peach floating upon the water directly in front of her. She picked it up, but did not eat it at once. She thought she would save it and share it with her dear old man at dinner, so she put it safely away in the cupboard.

At noon when her husband came home she cooked him a nice dinner. While they were sitting at the table she thought of the peach she had found in the creek and went to get it. When she opened the door of the cupboard, to her great surprise she saw a little baby coming out of the peach.

"Oh, wonderful! Oh, wonderful!" was all the old woman could say.

The old man, hearing the exclamation, immediately went to see what was the matter. He was as much astonished as his wife at the sight of the baby.

"It is very good, dear wife," said he, "for we have no child of our own, so we will take this one and bring it up as ours."

So she took the baby and wrapped it carefully and put it into a basket and placed it by the window.

In a few days the child grew so large that it was impossible to keep it in the basket, so she took a strong string and tied one end to the baby and the other to a millstone to keep it from getting away. But notwithstanding the child was so strong that it went about through the woods with the millstone and did a great deal of mischief.

In a few days the baby had grown to the size of a giant and worked with all a giant's strength helping the old man upon his little farm.

About this time the daughter of the Japanese king had been stolen by an owl (an imp) and carried far away to an iron castle on the owl's island, where she was imprisoned and tormented by fierce and ugly creatures.

The chief of the owls often tried to persuade her to marry him and become his queen, but she would not accept the owl's throne. But the owl persisted in wooing her and tried in many ways to make her consent.

When the old king, her father, heard of this wonderful child, who was so young and yet so very strong, he sent one of his servants to bid him come to his palace at once, so the child obeyed the king's order and went to the palace and was carried into the king's private chamber.

The king asked him if he would bring back his daughter from the Oniga Shina. The peach child told him he would try to do it, as he did not feel at all afraid of the owl. Then the king promised him that if he should succeed he would give him his daughter's hand in marriage as a reward for his great service.

Early the next morning the peach child assembled all the warriors together that were to accompany him on his expedition to Oniga Shina and made them a speech, and he promised to reward all that would serve the king's cause faithfully in the expedition against the owl. They were to have three rice biscuits apiece.

Then all agreed to obey the commands of the peach child, who at once assumed control of these loyal warriors, and the journey commenced.

When the whole army reached the Oniga Shina all the owls made great preparation to give the peach boy's warriors battle.

Next morning both armies met on the great plains of the Oniga Shina, where they fought a terrible battle until night put an end to the conflict. The fortunes of the day decided against the owl's party and an immense number was slaughtered, and their blood covered the plain.

Next morning, the peach child's army having completely routed the owl's hosts and captured the iron castle of their prince, after a diligent search in the castle they found the beautiful and lovely daughter of the king confined in a dark dungeon.

When the victorious army opened the owl's treasury, they found numerous precious things. Among them were two suits of winged dresses and a mysterious Japanese box.

The peach child and the king's daughter put on the winged dresses and flew back to the king's palace in a few minutes and told the king what had happened in the Oniga Shina.

The old king was very much pleased and gave his daughter in marriage to the peach child, who after the old king's death ascended the Japanese throne.

The wonder of his age and reign was the mysterious box which was taken from the owl, out of which the king could obtain anything he wanted.—New York News.

Remarkable Memories.

There was a Corsican boy who could rehearse 40,000 words, whether sense or nonsense, as they were dictated and then repeat them in the reversed order without making a single mistake. A physician about sixty years ago could repeat the whole of "Paradise Lost" without making a single mistake, although he had not read it for twenty years. Euler, the great mathematician, when he became blind could repeat the whole of Virgil's "Eneid" and could remember the first line and last line of every page of the particular edition which he had been accustomed to read before he became blind.—Sparto Moments.

Roosevelt Anecdotes

Theodore Roosevelt was not always the collected, diplomatic speaker he is today. The earmarks of the public man were just showing themselves when he went to school. During those days when there was anything special Teddy was called upon to deliver a recitation. Upon the occasion with which this story deals he was announced to recite the poem beginning at midnight, in his guarded tent.

The Turk, dreaming of the hour when Greece, her knee in supplication bent, would tremble at his power.

Teddy rose before a crowded house and started out bravely. With all the flourishes of boyish energy he repeated the lines as far as "When Greece, her knee—" And then he stopped.

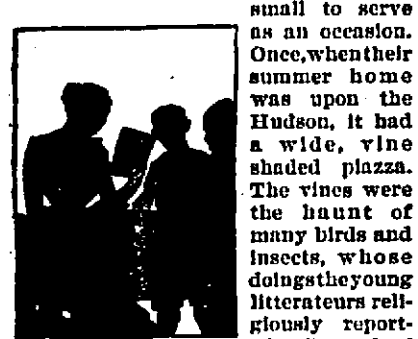

He stammered, shuffled his feet and began again, "When Greece, her knee—" The old schoolmaster leaned forward and in a shrill voice said, "Grease 'em again, Teddy, and maybe it will go then."

Roosevelt a "Mother Made" Man.

According to a family friend, President Roosevelt has good reason to rank himself in the list of mother made men. His father, who was a big, slow, silent man, something burgherlike in manner and speech, left the control of the children very much to his wife, a rarely beautiful woman, black haired, blue eyed and with a complexion of the most exquisite fairness. Pre-eminently a social leader, she was, of course, very much occupied, but nothing ever came between her and looking after her two boys, Teddy and Elliot. Even when lessons were done and the family away for the summer holidays she made them systematically study—not books, but things.

Each of the lads had to fetch her every morning a composition describing some natural object or phenomenon observed the day before. She insisted not merely upon accuracy, but acuteness. Nothing was too great or too small to serve as an occasion.

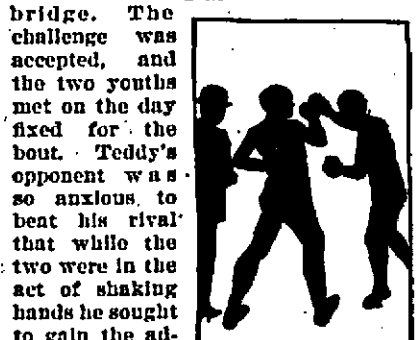

Once, when their summer home was upon the Hudson, it had a wide, vine shaded piazza. The vines were the haunt of many birds and insects, whose doings the young literateurs religiously reported. Several of the birds built nests in the vines. When the other things had been duly set down, Teddy undertook the nests. He was then hardly ten years old, but filled several sheets. This bird built with bark and straw, that one with sticks and strings, a third had a partially for hairs and wool, a fourth used whatever came to hand, while other very tiny fellows, warblers and humming birds, would have nothing but down and moss. He also noted that some of the birds divided the weagerness of brooding with their wives; that others fed and snuggled their mates upon the nest, but did not relieve them. What struck him most forcibly, however, was the birds' habit of housecleaning—of picking up and throwing outside anything that might soil the nests.

His mother read everything and praised where praise was judicious. Often she saw things which made her smile, but she kept the smile hidden from her little lads.

How Roosevelt Thrashed a Bully.

Theodore Roosevelt had been in Harvard less than a year when he did a thing which won for him the admiration and respect of juniors and seniors alike. A fellow student, larger and more muscular than himself, but contented as a bully of the worst type, had singled out Roosevelt as the special object of his displeasure, and finally, one day was challenged openly to fistic combat in the big gymnasium at Cambridge.

The challenge was accepted, and the two youths met on the day fixed for the bout. Teddy's opponent was so anxious to beat his rival that while the two were in the act of shaking hands he sought to gain the advantage by landing a sharp blow on one of Roosevelt's ears with his free left hand. The blow was so obviously a foul one that the students greeted the assault with cries of "Shame!"

Teddy, however, merely stood still and smiled. Then, to the astonishment and discomfiture of his opponent, young Roosevelt bowed politely and extended his hand. The big fellow hesitated, but finally decided to grasp the extended hand in the true preliminary form. This time the bully took no advantage of his opponent and the boxing match began in proper style. It ended in just as proper style, too, for the thrashing the larger man received was severe enough to keep him a-bed for a week afterward.

The President's Love Romance.

It has never been suggested, that Theodore Roosevelt and Edith Kermit Carow, who became his second wife, were betrothed in their early youth at the time when the Roosevelts and the Carows were two of the foremost families in New York and on terms of strong intimacy with each other.

Edith Carow, a lovely and brilliant girl, was a constant guest at the Roosevelts'. Her father was Charles Carow, her grandfather Isaac Carow, a wealthy shipping merchant.

There was hardly a week during this boyhood and girlhood stage that Theodore Roosevelt and Edith Carow did not meet. They were the best of comrades, the most loyal of friends.

Then came separation. Young Theodore, with a mind made up to startle the world, chose one of the most conservative spots on earth to accomplish it and entered Harvard university.

While there he fell in love with Miss Alice Lee, who, too, fell in love, and shortly after Roosevelt's graduation they were married. All this, however, was to prove but a tragic incident. Young Mrs. Roosevelt lived but a year or two and died leaving a baby girl, her namesake.

Grief stricken, the young man went back to his own home. There was consolation in the heartiness with which old friends greeted him and a special solace in the warm friendliness of his boyhood's companion, Edith Carow.

Miss Carow had all this time been on the most cordial terms with the Roosevelts and a constant friend of Theodore Roosevelt's sister, now Mrs. Douglas Robinson.

One day in the spring of 1886 some very exciting news was spread over New York. Edith Carow, the "invaluable," was engaged to marry Theodore Roosevelt.

Roosevelt and the Cattle Thief.

For a long time the ranches along the Little Missouri suffered a great deal from the depredations of cattle thieves. Finally the sheriff called the ranch owners in consultation. Among them was Theodore Roosevelt.

The sheriff severely denounced the thieves, asking for the opinions of the ranchers, and Mr. Roosevelt boldly replied: "There ought to be no great difficulty in carrying out your suggestions, Mr. Sheriff, but I have a strong impression that you will not be the one to carry them out, for I am convinced, and I think every other man in the room is, that you have had more to do with the cattle stealing than any other man in the county."

The sheriff resigned his office the next day and left the country. And the cattle stealing stopped.

Roosevelt on the Stump.

During Colonel Roosevelt's campaigning tour in 1900 his speeches were frequently interrupted by impudent remarks. The colonel and his party had a happy faculty of turning these interruptions to advantage. Once during a short stop in a Colorado town Colonel Roosevelt was frequently interrupted by a man named Phelps. The man stood on the outskirts of the crowd and shouted repeatedly:

"Bet you $100 to $50 that you are not elected."

The colonel had a restraining hand on Sergeant Buck Taylor and Trooper Megaphone Bell, his companions, to keep them from climbing over into the crowd after Phelps. In order to keep Bell out of mischief the candidate called upon him to make a speech.

"Ladies and gentlemen," he began, "I am more glad—"

"Bet you $100 to $50 you are not elected!" yelled Phelps, coming closer.

Bell leaned far over the railing around the platform and pointed his forefinger straight at him.

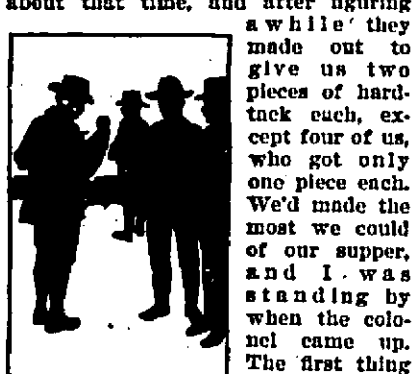

"By glory, gentlemen," he said, and his voice could have been heard a quarter of a mile down the track, "we fought with the colonel, and we know who he is. The more we knew of him the more we loved him, and the more we know him now the more we love him, and if that son of a gun who is raising those Spanish cheers will take a morning train to San Antonio, Tex., we will have him buried before sundown."

Perhaps Phelps crawled under the pile of ties he was standing on. At any rate, he vanished and was not seen or heard again.

Roosevelt Had Hardtack Too.

"I remember the evening of July 2," says one of Roosevelt's ex-rough riders, "when we were in the San Juan trenches. We were rather shy on provisions about that time, and after figuring a while they made out to give us two pieces of hardtack each, except four of us, who got only one piece each. We'd made the most we could of our supper, and I was standing by when the colonel came up. The first thing he asked was whether we had had our rations, such as they were. They told him we had."

"All right," he said, "I'll have mine now." And he ate his two pieces of hardtack like the rest of us."

How Roosevelt Rode a Wild Cow.

"Theodore Roosevelt was well known in the west long before his rough riders were thought of," says E. C. Brewer, a ranchman of the Big Horn country, Wyoming.

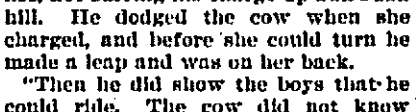

"It was in 1887 that Teddy Roosevelt stopped for a few days at my ranch. He said he had come for big game, and he got it. We were out shooting and ran across a bunch of wild cattle. Teddy could not resist the temptation to rope one. He tried to rope it, but the broncho shied and threw him."

"The rope went wild, and so did the horse. Roosevelt had ridden some distance from us, and before we could come up one of the cows charged him. We expected, of course, to see his flash right there."

A Letter to "Mr. Teddy."

A fine new church has lately been built by the Baptist society of Shushan, N. Y. The dedication services were held about the time of the inauguration of Roosevelt as governor of New York. A small boy of Shushan, who had reached the mature age of four years, was much interested in the church and, being an observing lad and hearing a good deal of talk about Teddy Roosevelt, sat down one day with pencil and paper and wrote as follows:

Dear Mr. Teddy—We are building a beautiful new church. Won't you please send us 10 cents for it?

CHARLES BROWN.

The letter was sent by the child's fond parents to the governor, and almost by return mail came an answer from Teddy containing a bright new 10 cent piece and, what was better, many kind words to the letter writer and best wishes for the prosperity of the "beautiful new church."

"It was when we left the trenches and went back to our last camp before we left the island. Each of us had his equipment to carry, and we had pickaxes and shovels in addition. One young fellow was pretty nearly tuckered out, and he was struggling along with his pick besides his gun and the rest of his stuff. You remember that young fellow, don't you?"

"Yes, and I'll tell you who he was. He was a son of General Babcock."

"That's so. Well, the colonel came along, and when he saw the boy he just took the pick away from him and carried it back to camp himself. And not only that, but then he carried it down the company street and put it in the boy's tent."

Colonel Roosevelt Was Democratic.

"When we went forward and took San Juan hill," relates Trooper Bell of Roosevelt's rough riders, "the others thought we had orders, and some of them piled in and went along, and the consequence was that when we got to the top there were rough riders, Ninth and Tenth cavalry and Sixth cavalry and Infantry all mixed up together. You never saw such a mixup. And Colonel Roosevelt not only looked after us, but he helped look after the rest of the cavalry too. You may think we're partial, but you just ask any of the Ninth and Tenth regulars. They were the colored troops, and they know what kind of a man Roosevelt is. Now, just let me tell you something. You know a soldier's canteen is the thing he always clings to—his canteen, his gun and his cartridge belt. Well, when we were on the march the colonel would come along the line and ask one of his boys for a drink from his canteen and make no bones of it at all. And not only that, but he'd drink out of the canteen of a Ninth or Tenth cavalryman and not act as if the Lord had made him out of a little finer clay than all the rest of the world, though the Lord did, just the same."

"The rope went wild, and so did the horse. Roosevelt had ridden some distance from us, and before we could come up one of the cows charged him. We expected, of course, to see his flash right there."

"I had my gun out and was trying to get a shot at the cow when Roosevelt performed the most daring act of his life, not baring his charge up San Juan hill. He dodged the cow when she charged, and before she could turn he made a leap and was on her back."

"Then he did show the boys that he could ride. The cow did not know what to make of the performance, and after a pitch or two she started on a dead run down the gulch."

"Teddy stayed with her until she was tired out and we had overtaken them. One of the boys roped the cow, and Roosevelt bounded off, smiling as usual, and the only comment he made was that he had never enjoyed a ride more."

Santiago, "and when the hot fighting was in progress his luggage consisted almost entirely of spectacles. Near-sighted people always have an abiding fear of losing their glasses, knowing their absolute helplessness without such aid, and I was told by one of the New York club contingent that Roosevelt took particular pains before leaving home to provide against such a disaster."

"He had been in the habit of wearing nose glasses, with a black silk cord attached, but the arrangement was entirely unsuited to a campaign, where the glasses themselves would be liable to fall off constantly and the cord to catch on twigs. So he substituted very large, round spectacles with steel hooks for the ears and had a dozen pairs mounted. These he planted around his person and equipment, trying to distribute them so no one accident could include them all. One pair was sewed in his blouse, another in his belt, another in his hat, two in his saddlebags, and so on."

"At the fight at Guashmas his horse was barked by a bullet while held by an orderly and plunged frantically against a tree. Colonel Roosevelt came rushing up, all anxiety, and began prying under the saddle flap. 'They haven't hurt the nag, sir,' said the orderly. 'I know,' replied the colonel, with tears in his eyes; 'but, blast 'em, they've smashed my specs!'"

Roosevelt's Coolness Under Fire.

Roosevelt's coolness under fire was remarkable. At the battle of Las Guashmas he was standing in an exposed position. Mauder bullets were dropping and singing around him.

Suddenly he was seen to put his hand up to his face. Those near him thought he had been shot. Taking his hand down, he was seen to be smiling. "D—d if they haven't shot away my glasses!" was all he said as he continued to direct his men, not moving a foot from his perilous position.

At the battle of San Juan Roosevelt was slightly wounded. He formed a very conspicuous object and was, in fact, a regular target for the enemy to pepper at. This, however, did not seem to disturb Roosevelt's equality in the least. Dressed in a bright blue shirt, he walked up and down in plain view of the enemy. A shell burst over his head. A fragment from it struck Roosevelt on the finger, causing a slight wound.

"Well, boys," he said, laughing, "I've got it, too, but the Spaniards will have to beat that."

CONCRETE WALKS IN GREAT DEMAND

MANY BEING CONSTRUCTED IN JANESVILLE.

G. D. Cannon is busy these days filling contracts. They are much cheaper in the end than wood or brick—contracts in the Business Section.

If one is to judge from the large number of cement walks that have been constructed in Janesville during the past few years it is quite evident that cement is fast taking the place of brick and lumber. Although cement is considered to be more expensive from the start it has been clearly proven that it is much cheaper in the end. G. D. Cannon has for the past eighteen years been engaged in the building of cement walks and judging from the large number that Mr. Cannon has constructed in Janesville it is plain to be seen that he is securing his full share of the business. Among his contracts that are worthy of mention is the walk in front of the post office building as well as the walks around The Fair department store on South River street. The Milwaukee and Main street walks that surround the Hayes block were also constructed by Mr. Cannon as well as the new one that will soon front the remodeled Jackson block. The grade of cement used is always the best material to be purchased. Workmen who are experts at the business are only employed. The secret of Mr. Cannon's success have been in the fact that his walks are the best and cheapest. Mr. Cannon's office is at his Carrington street residence which is connected with the new phone, number 651. Estimates are at all times cheerfully given.

BELOIT GOLFERS BADLY DEFEATED

A Friendly Match in the Rain Results in a Score of 23 to 0 in Favor of Janesville.

The saying that no genuine golfer stops play for a Scotch mist was verified yesterday afternoon on the links of the Slinnissippi Golf club. A friendly match between a team from the Beloit club and a team from the Slinnissippi club was arranged for yesterday afternoon and was pulled off in spite of the rain.

The Beloit gentlemen arrived in the city at one o'clock and were escorted to the grounds by a committee from the Slinnissippi club. Although the rain was falling at the time of their arrival no time was lost in getting started.

Wilson Lane was team captain for the Slinnissippi club and C. Parker for the Beloit team. When the last pair had finished and handed in their cards, it was found that all the Slinnissippi players had come in "up" and the score stood 23 to 0.

To Captain Lane belongs the honor of having his opponent the most "down" of any of the players. His card showed him to be 11 up at the finish. Mr. Lane put up a game that was a credit to himself and club. His approach work with his masher being especially effective. The line up and the score is as follows:

Slinnissippi. 23 Beloit. 0

McGillivray. 3 McKee. 0

Achterberg. 2 Chickering. 0

Lane. 11 Parker. 0

McLean. 3 Brown. 0

Total. 23 Beloit. 0

The Beloit visitors were a gentlemanly lot of players and are thorough sportsmen. For the chances they have had to play golf they have developed a first-class team and will be in shape to make themselves heard from next season.

Wife and Child Missing

Albert Foster, a resident of Beloit was in the city last evening in search of his wife and child who left him about a week ago. They came to this city at that time and Foster came up here to see if he could find any trace of them. He is particularly anxious to get possession of the child. He did not find any trace of the missing ones, and returned to Beloit.

BURGLARS ENTER SKELLY'S STORE

W. J. Skelly's book store was entered some time last night by burglars who gained an entrance by taking out a pane of glass in one of the rear windows. The burglars tapped the till, getting a small amount of change and cleaned out the case containing the Parker fountain pens. There was quite a number of pens in the case worth considerable money. The burglars left nothing behind them to give the police a clue as to who they were but from the manner in which the job was done the officers are confident that local parties are mixed up in it and expect to land them behind the bars.

THE POPULAR WOMAN.

The Kind That Men Admire.

Men admire a pretty face and a good figure, but sooner or later learn that the happy woman, that contented one is most of all to be admired.

Those troubled with fainting spells, irregularity, nervous irritability, backache, the blues and that dreadful bearing down feeling cannot hope to be happy, and advancement in either home or social life is impossible.

It is clearly shown in the young lady's letter which follows that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will certainly cure the sufferings of women; and when one considers that Miss Murphy's letter is only one of the countless hundreds which we are continually publishing in the newspapers of this country, the great virtue of Mrs. Pinkham's medicine must be admitted by all; and for the absolute cure of all kinds of female ills no substitute can possibly take its place. Women should bear this important fact in mind when they go into a drug store, and be sure not to accept anything that is claimed to be "just as good" as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, for no other medicine for female ills has made so many actual cures.

MISS MARGARETTA MURPHY.

President "Lend-a-Hand Club," Seattle, Wash.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—For three years I suffered with bearing down pains, backache, became nervous and hysterical and could not enjoy life as other young women did. A lady friend who had suffered similarly and been cured, suggested that I try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I had little faith in it, but nevertheless I gave it a trial, and I am glad that I did. I kept getting better gradually and my pains left me and within four months I was a well woman. This is a year ago and I have never had any trouble since. I wish all suffering women knew of your valuable medicine. —Yours very truly, MARGARETTA MURPHY, 2703 Sec. Ave., Seattle, Wash."

Two More Grateful Letters.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I feel it my duty to write you in regard to your valuable medicine. I have been troubled with falling of the womb and inflammation of the ovaries, and was so bad I could hardly walk across the floor. The doctors said it was impossible for me to get well unless I had an operation, but this I would not listen to. Having read so much about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I made up my mind to give it a trial, and it has done wonders for me. I commenced to feel better from the first dose, and today I am a well, healthy girl."

"I hope that your Vegetable Compound will relieve other sufferers as it did me, and thanking you for restoring my health, I remain, —Miss ALMA LARSON, Box 188, Hudson, Wis."

Don't hesitate to write to Mrs. Pinkham if there is anything about your sickness you do not understand. She will treat you with kindness and her advice is free. No woman ever regretted writing her and she has helped thousands. Address LYNN, MASS.

$5000 REWARD.—We have deposited with the National City Bank of Lynn, $5000, which will be paid to any person who can find that the above testimonial letter is not genuine, or was published before obtaining the writer's special permission. Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass.

IN HANDS OF 20 BRIGANDS

Missionary, Miss Stone, Now in Turkish Territory.

HER LIFE IN NO DANGER.

She is Reported to Be in the Hands of Her Captors Close to the Village of Iakuruta—Communication with Desperadoes.

London, Oct. 12.—The special correspondent of the Chicago Inter Ocean at Sophia telegraphed at 4:30 o'clock p. m.:

"The Bulgarian police are assured that Miss Stone has been conducted by twenty brigands close to the village of Iakuruta, in Turkish territory, and that effective measures have been taken to prevent their return to Bulgaria. No apprehension is felt that Miss Stone's life is endangered, or that she is undergoing more hardships than she was accustomed to. Consul General Dickinson is in communication with the brigands, but owing to the precautions they take to avoid being located considerable delay is inevitable before Miss Stone's release can be effected."

Has No Reliable News.

After detailing the history of the abduction of Miss Stone, the Spectator remarks:

"President Roosevelt and the Washington cabinet maintain justly that the sultan is responsible, as it is his misgovernment which provokes and protects brigandage, and they intend to demand reparation from the Porte. It will not be limited, we imagine, to $25,000. The Porte will be required to punish the authors of the outrage, and as Turkey is sure to shuffle and America is tired of being played with, a naval demonstration is quite on the cards. The sultan will, of course, yield to the first show of force."

New York, Oct. 12.—The following cable dispatch from President Washington of Roberts college, Constantinople, was received this afternoon:

"Louis Klopsch, Christian Herald, New York: No reliable news of Miss Stone. Making every effort to find her and rescue her. Public appeals in America are considered inopportune."

Bulgarian Troops Searching Villages.

New York, Oct. 12.—Three battalions of the 6th Bulgarian infantry regiment marched through the country between Dubnitz and Samakov and searched the villages of the Riloklosters district, in one of which it was reported the brigands had concealed Miss Stone, says the Sofia correspondent of the Journal and Advertiser. Col. Geschof at the head of a searching party composed of 300 Bulgarian infantry and 600 dragoons, is scouring the ranges of Dospat and the Rhodopegebirgen.

Consul-General Dickinson, at Constantinople, has arrived at Sofia with an evangelical pastor from the Philippopolis as dragoman and both are taking energetic steps with the Bulgarian government to effect Miss Stone's release.

The reputed leader of the gang who killed Stambouloff has met his fate. Suspected of being associated in the capture of Miss Stone, he was shot dead on the frontier near Kostendit. Thought $1,000 reward had been placed on the head of the murderer of Stambouloff, Hallo, the name under which he was known, was too influential a ruffian for the Bulgarian police to arrest.

Four additional brigands have been captured near Tschepino, and a band of twenty, fully armed, were discovered near Dubnitz and driven into the mountains again.

Prof. Salisbury of Whitewater was in the city last evening.

Hard work does not hurt a well woman. It is the weak woman, suffering from diseases peculiar to her sex, who breaks down under the daily strain of household duties. For diseases of the delicate womanly organs Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the standard remedy. Over half a million women owe health and happiness to Dr. Pierce's treatment.

"No tongue could express the pain that I endured before I commenced taking Dr. Pierce's medicine," writes Mrs. Mollie Colgate, of Randolph, Charlotte Co., Va. "I was unable to do anything at all. Could not eat anything except bread and tea—or if I did the top of my head hurt so it seemed it would kill me; but now I can eat a little of almost anything. I want and can do a good day's work as well as any body can. I am better than I have been for years. I think your medicine is the best that ever was made for the ailments of my kind. I did me any good. I tried many other kinds but none did me any good but your 'Favorite Prescription' and 'Golden Medical Discovery.' I can never praise them too highly."

SCHLEY PRAISED FOR WORK

Sampson Commends Blockade Despite Protest of Chadwick.

DEWEY SHOWS SOME TEMPER.

Head of Inquiry Court Angry at New Attempt to Bring in Conversation—Chadwick Says Schley Asserted His Loyalty to Sampson.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 12.—Captain French E. Chadwick, commander of the New York in 1898, created somewhat of a sensation at the court of inquiry when he testified that he protested to Sampson against sending to Schley a message congratulating the latter upon the character of the blockade he had maintained, because, under the circumstances, such action was improper. Admiral Dewey himself then created quite a stir in the courtroom by exhibiting considerable temper in declining to permit Mr. Rayner to question Captain Chadwick relating to a conversation that officer had with Remy and Watson, in which Captain Chadwick is alleged to have approved the blockade. "We don't want any conversation here. We want the facts, and you know that we want nothing else but the facts," said Admiral Dewey impatiently to Mr. Rayner, who was directed to withdraw the question. Mr. Rayner contended that it was perfectly proper to admit the conversation in question, as it tended to show that Captain Chadwick had endorsed the blockade at one time and had at another protested against Schley being congratulated for the character of it.

Schley's Pledge of Loyalty.

Captain Chadwick told of the meeting of Schley, Sampson, and himself on board the New York at Key West before the flying squadron sailed for Cuba. Schley on that occasion assured Sampson that he would be loyal to the commander of the North Atlantic squadron. Schley asserted, according to the witness, that he was pleased to serve under Sampson. Speaking of his knowledge of the code of signals arranged with the insurgents, Captain Chadwick said this code had been communicated to him by Commander McCalla, who did not care to have anything said about it, as he (McCalla) expected to go back to Cienfuegos the next day, May 20. Owing to the difficulty in getting supplies at Key West McCalla with the Marblehead did not leave for Cienfuegos until the following day.

Dewey's Nephew a Witness.

Lieutenant F. J. Dewey, a nephew of Admiral Dewey and watch officer of the Massachusetts during the war, was on the stand a short time today. There is a remarkable resemblance between the admiral and his nephew, which created some comment. Lieutenant Dewey said that so far as he knew no plans of battle had been arranged, in the event of meeting the enemy, and that the enemy could have escaped from Santiago harbor owing to the darkness and the distance of the blockading fleet from shore. He was positive the action of May 31st was for the purpose of destroying the Colon and not to dismantle the shore batteries or to determine their location. He was ordered, he said, to direct his fire on the Colon, and no reference was made to the batteries.

Case May Last Another Month.

Captain Lemly had supposed he would be able to conclude the presentation of the government's side of the case by the close of this week, but he now finds that he still has several witnesses on his list. In all probability he will consume the greater part of the first half of next week. Mr. Rayner estimates that the court will not be able to conclude its work before the middle of November.

Lieut. J. H. Holden was next placed on the stand. Other witnesses for the day included Lieutenant-Commander C. C. Marsh and Lieutenant E. L. Bennett of the flagship New York; Lieut. Adelbert Althouse of the Massachusetts, Lieut. Francis Boughter of the Marblehead and Lieut. William H. Reynolds, who was signal officer on board the Texas.

CAR INSPECTOR IS ARRESTED.

Charged with Theft of $70,000 from Mrs. Denman Thompson.

Ithaca, N. Y., Oct. 12.—Charles Norris, car inspector for the Lehigh Valley railroad, was arrested here charged with the theft of bonds, jewelry, and other property, valued at $70,000, belonging to Mrs. Denman Thompson and Mrs. Franklin Thompson of "The Old Homestead" company. The arrest was made while Norris was acting as an inspector in an election booth. Most of the property, including $60,000 worth of bonds, has been recovered. The theft was reported to the police a week ago. The property was missing from the company's baggage car, in which were trunks belonging to Mrs. Thompson and her daughter-in-law, and is said to have been taken while the company was plying at the Lyceum here. The locks of the trunks were picked and the articles selected at leisure. Norris, in his capacity as car inspector, had access to the car, but the robbery was not discovered until the train reached Albany.

Andrews Succeeds Carlisle.
New York, Oct. 12.—Lillian Herbert Andrews, a lawyer of this city, has been appointed attorney for the republic of Colombia, succeeding Calderon Carlisle, who died a short time ago. Andrews was for several years associated with the late David Dudley Field.

BULLER SEVERELY CRITICISED.

Admission That He Advised Surrender of Ladysmith Unless Storm.

New York, Oct. 12.—Sir Redvers Buller's extraordinary speech, admitting that he advised Sir George White to surrender Ladysmith to the Boers, is hailed with consternation by this morning's papers, says the Tribune's London correspondent. The Standard attacks him severely, and tells him that the best thing he can do now is to resign his command of the 1st army corps. The Daily Mail, which considers that the speech would have been more in place on the boards of a theater, points out that the message to Ladysmith is exactly paralleled by Sir H. Parker's famous order to Admiral Nelson at Copenhagen to break off the battle and to retire in order—a request which posterity has unsparingly condemned.

On the whole, Mr. Broderick's statement concerning the South African situation is fairly well received, but two or three of the conservative papers are not satisfied with it.

The next explanation which has been received regarding the proclamation of martial law in Cape Colony is that Lord Kitchener insisted upon having some means of protecting the army against traitors in the rear, who were more dangerous than the Cape rebels, hiding and fighting in the mountains. Whether or not there was any controversy between Lord Kitchener and Sir Alfred Milner over the proclamation is an open question. But the report that another commander-in-chief in South Africa would have been requisite if it had been issued is generally credited among military and government officials.

Came Near Dying.

"For three days and nights I suffered," said M. E. Lowther, clerk of the district court, Centerville, Iowa. "I thought I should surely die, and tried a dozen different medicines, but all to no purpose. I sent for a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and three doses relieved me entirely. I went to sleep and did not awake for eight hours. On awakening a few hours ago I felt so gratified that the first work I do on going to the office is to write to the manufacturers of this remedy and offer them my grateful thanks and say, 'God bless you and the splendid medicine you make.' This remedy is for sale by King's pharmacy and People's Drug Co."

SCHLEY INQUIRY DRAWS TO A CLOSE

Commander Lemly Hopes to Conclude His Part of the Case Early Next Week.

Washington, Oct. 12.—Captain Chadwick resumed his testimony before the Schley court this morning. Rayner, read a letter which was a part of Chadwick's testimony of yesterday.

He said Chadwick's statement that he protested against Sampson's congratulatory message to Schley was certainly gratuitous and left the record in bad shape. Chadwick in answer to a question said that he had then thought of blockade in mind when he made the protest. But the protest was particularly directed against congratulating Schley for saying: "I would endeavor to coal from the Merrimac and hold the position off Santiago."

Lt. Commander Stanton, assistant chief of staff to Sampson, was the next witness. He said he had received information from the operator in the Havana office to the effect that Cervera was in Santiago harbor on May twentieth. He admitted that the information was not transmitted to Schley until the evening of the next day.

Major Lemly hopes to conclude his side of the case early next week.

DECIDED THE CASE FOR THE PLAINTIFF

Suit of Bostwick vs. Mutual Life Insurance Co. of New York, Disposed of by Judge Dunwiddie.

Judge Dunwiddie today decided the case of Bostwick against the Mutual Life Insurance company of New York in favor of the plaintiff. This action was brought by J. M. Bostwick against the insurance company for the return of premiums paid them on a policy which was not what was represented to him when he took out the insurance.

Mr. Bostwick claimed that the insurance was to be a ten-year-payment policy and after that time he was to have a paid up policy. The policy proved to be one that called for the payment of premiums during his life. The agent Mr. Raibe, of Milwaukee, who sold him the policy, figured that the dividends accruing after ten years would be sufficient to pay the premiums.

There were two questions in the case, one of fact and one of law. "Did the plaintiff receive the policy he bargained for and was the plaintiff negligent in not reading his policy before he paid the premium?" Judge Dunwiddie decided both of these questions in favor of the plaintiff. The first on a preponderance of evidence in favor of a misrepresentation of facts on the part of the insurance agent. Three witnesses swearing positively that the agent misrepresented the kind of policy that would be issued.

The negligence question was decided in favor of the plaintiff for the reason that in cases where fraud is shown between the parties, the decisions hold that negligence cannot be set up by the plaintiff as an excuse.

This is an important decision and will probably be carried to the supreme court by the defendants. Reger & Reger appeared for the plaintiff and M. G. Jeffris for the defense. There are two other suits pending on the same grounds against the defendant company.

Mr. Bostwick's policy was for $10,000. The ones held by Rev. Barrington and George Parker were for $5,000 each.

Children's Choir to Sing

The anthems by the children's choir are a valued part of the morning service and the members of the congregation will be pleased to hear the sweet young voices once more. All members of the choir are urged to report in the Sunday school room of the church at ten o'clock.
